BUSINESS and PUBLICITY.—Noto-DUSINESS and PUBLICITY.—Notoriesty is the important element of access in busicess. It is through the newspapers of the country that this can be thoroughly a tained. Fortunes are accumulated in a few years by the se who avail themselves of this power. The vast benefits resulting from systematic and continuous advertising are only beginning to be understood. It is demonstrated that the merchant, the manufacturer, or the mechanic, may increase his business at pleasure, in proportion to the energy and means he employs in gaining publicity. Then why do not all advesties! Because business men are only beginning to realize its importance. Still the amount of advertising seen in the columns of the journals has doubled within five years, and will double again in five more. Those who bang back will see their vousger and more energetic rivals cutaripping them. There is no use in contending against the spirit of the age. If they won't jump into the cars and pay their fare they must be left behind to travel on foot.

The opportunity for advertising in the best papers of all the cities and principal towns of the country is afforded the Assexy of V. B. PALMER, where the papers are field for examination. He is authorized by the proprietors to trainsect the business, and to give receipts for subscriptions and advertisements.
